CHARLES HOLMES PETTEE

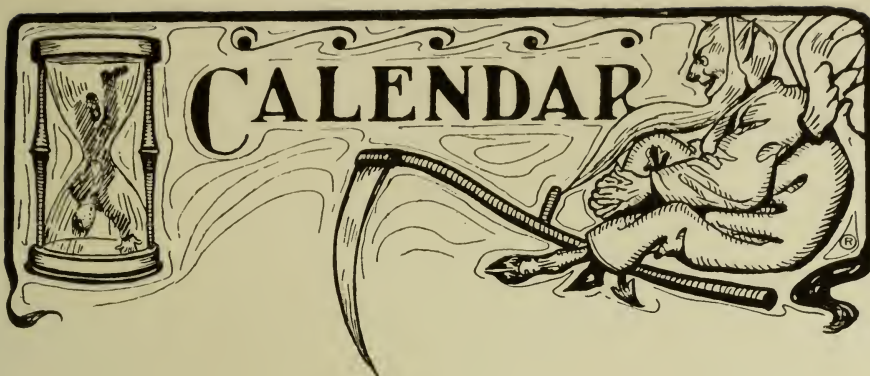

THIS VOLUME
IS DEDICATED
AS A TOKEN
OF ESTEEM
AND RESPECT

Charles Holmes Pettie.

Charles Holmes Pettee

CHARLES H. PETTEE, to whom this volume is dedicated, has been connected with the college almost since its birth. He has been a member of the faculty for the past thirty-two years and has acted as Dean since 1889. He is a man of sterling character, a thorough scholar, a faithful teacher, and a true friend. His pleasing personality, his genuine interest in the welfare of the individual student, and his life and work among us, have all made him highly esteemed by those with whom he has come in contact during his long period of faithful service.

History of the Class of 1909

TEMPUS fugit." Yet a few more short weeks and the Class of 1909 will be numbered among the ages. A history, according to Noah Webster, is a "narrative of past events," but to historify the illustrious Class of 1909 is by no means an easy task. Not that our short life at New Hampshire has not been filled with noble deeds, and crowned with the laurels of victories, and finally the goal of success reached; but to us who are soon to leave New Hampshire the hollow words of self-praise seem a thin veneer with which to cover the glorious numerals upon which we are for the last time asking you to gaze.

In September, 1905, New Hampshire College opened wide her gates, we marched in nearly eighty strong, the upper-classmen stretched forth their hands to "render homage to a budding genius," and we were a part of the college. During our Freshman year we acquainted ourselves thoroughly with the college, spent considerable time with our books, and made ourselves as inconspicuous as possible. Thus it was that we builded a firm foundation for our class, and in our last years have been able to cope successfully with the problems before us, working continually for the betterment of our college and for the honor of our class.

The individuality of a man grows as he advances in years. Thus it was with our class, for during our Sophomore year we perceived that in order to be foremost we must be original. So, in February of this year, we ushered the Sophomore Hop into New Hampshire College. This social event met with such favor that it has now become a regular college custom. This year, as in the one previous, we were successful in class contests, and also made progress enough in our studies to have our stay in Durham extended for another year. This year was really our start, and our individuality was marked by our originality.

By the usual process we were made Juniors. We had spent two years in Durham, and had become so enthused with New Hampshire spirit that we could not remain idle this year. "Where there's smoke there's fire." We discussed and searched, and finally another new custom was brought out—we published the first volume of The Granite. We labored exceedingly this year, that we might not be driven from Durham now that our mission was nearly accomplished. The passing of our third year at New Hampshire was celebrated with a clambake "down the Bay."

"The survival of the fittest." Our Senior year. There are now left thirty-three of the original Class of 1909, thirty-three who have withstood the bold attacks of the Faculty, and successfully run the gauntlet. It is true that some of us bear marks of the struggle—but what are scars to the victor? We are now about to leave New Hampshire—the Class of 1909. Our ability to cope with the problems of life will soon be manifest. Whether success awaits us or not, it will be our one aim, never to bring dishonor to the fair name of our Alma Mater, New Hampshire College.

History of the Class of 1910

N LAYING before you the history of 1910, we do not propose to squander "Hot Air." We will simply content ourselves with enumerating a few facts concerning the past of 1910.

When the several members of our organization arrived in Durham, one hot day in September of 1906, they were green. This fact cannot be denied, and we have no desire to do so. "Greenness" on the part of a Freshman is as much to be expected as rain in "dog days." Let us dismiss this subject, however, as we did then, in a very brief space of time.

1910 was born September 6, 1906, in Thompson Hall, when 1908, a class of pleasant memories, helped us organize. That same evening we met 1909 on the campus, at 10.30, in that very entertaining "scrap" known as the annual cane-rush. This was the last rush that has occurred here after nightfall, and it was a good one, so they told us. We couldn't see it, however, being busy. The score was finally decided to be 25-23, in favor of our enemy, who was not willing to allow a two-year man's hands to be counted, which, if done, would have tied the score, although several two-year men fought on their side.

A few nights after the rush, the Sophomores arranged a party for us in the "Block." Some of us, not accustomed to appearing in public, showed signs of embarrassment, but otherwise everything went off well, and the Sophs gave great demonstrations of approval at the things we did.

The class football game in October was a tie, 0-0. It was a good game to watch. Verbally, the Sophomores had "trimmed" us to a standstill, but when it was "up to" their team, the latter could not furnish "steam" enough to keep the ball out of its own territory.

We went to Haverhill at the close of the football season, and not only had a picture taken, but enjoyed our first annual banquet as well.

When 1909 set out for Portsmouth in the winter term, it left nine of its men, note the figure, in our clutches. These nine "sat in" with us a greater part of that night at the game of "63."

A few weeks later, in March, our basketball team sent the '09 aggregation down to defeat in one of the noisiest and most exciting games ever seen at the "gym." It was interesting to note the joy which prevailed among the Sophomores before the game that night, and to contrast it with the woe that was evident among them in the second half, when our team took the lead and won, 18-13.

We were unlucky in the contest of the spring term, the baseball game. The game was creditable to us, however, as all our contests have been. The final score was 6-5, in favor of the Sophomores. The term ended next day, and we left Durham with a thousand memories of the happiest year that had yet come to us.

In September of 1907, we were on the old familiar ground once more. As on the previous occasion, we found troubles awaiting us. They were of an entirely different nature, however. The men, or rather the children, of 1911 were there to require our tutelage, which they received with rather ill grace. An "informal" was held in their honor the evening of registration day, in Pettee Block. To say they were bashful or scared would ill suffice to express the reason for their gorming, calf-like attitudes.

In our second cane-rush we were defeated, as one might have expected, for our opponents outnumbered us by about a dozen men. The score stood 26-22. The class football game was a near-victory for us, but the timer's whistle ended the game with no score to the credit of either side. The Freshmen had their banquet the day after Thanksgiving, before one-fifth of us had returned from the recess.

On the eve of Washington's Birthday, 1908, the greatest social event of that year took place, under our auspices. It was the annual Sophomore Hop. The gymnasium was never filled with a happier crowd than on that night, nor had there ever been such great pains taken to insure their happiness.

Soon after the "Hop," the "Freshies" attempted to wake up one morning to catch the early train for Exeter. The attempt was not as successful as they could have wished, however. Over ten per cent. of them overslept, and when we missed their comrades, we took them into custody until the safe return of the others. It seemed a pity for them to fail in this attempt, after they had had such trouble in screwing their courage up to the sticking point at that late date.

Three days later, our basketball team met theirs, with the result that the Freshmen received a very wholesome setback. The game was very one-sided. Our team had no difficulty in defeating the precious upstarts by a score of 20-8. The opponents made but one basket from the floor.

On the 9th of April, the spring term of that year, 1910 quietly deprived this town of its presence until the following noon. The occasion of this action was our annual banquet, which was held at The Rockingham, at Portsmouth. There was not the slightest difficulty about getting away. We left in a body, by special train, at noon, with not a Freshman in sight to mar the landscape. We learned afterward that it was fully an hour before the truth had finally dawned upon the interior of their nearly im-permeable craniums, and great was their woe when they learned that they must shift for themselves during our absence. To say anything about the banquet would be superfluous. Of course, we enjoyed it.

At the first annual field meet, which occurred in May, our class was well represented, and carried off not a few honors. The feature which naturally pleased us most was the tug-of-war between twenty Freshmen and twenty Sophomores. Long, strong pulling won out for us. The '11 team soon realized that we were masters of the situation, and as they were being made to wipe the campus, the vision of the ten dozen bananas, the prize, faded from their sight.

The remainder of the term passed quietly, until Commencement Week, when the youngsters announced that their baseball team would "trim ours to a dark brown finish." Their reckonings must have gone askew, however, for the final score stood 10-5 in our favor.

Our Junior year has been uneventful thus far. Returning last September, with the half-way mark of our college career well rounded, we found several new responsibilities awaiting us. The Freshmen were to be looked after. The faculty must be dodged, lest we be "canned" by the wholesale. More important still, The Granite must be published. All these duties, and more, will be faithfully discharged by us.

It is possible, in closing, to permit the escape of much heated atmosphere, but we refrain, for reasons above stated. A brief review might not be out of place, however. In athletics, 1910 has always been well represented on all the teams. Both class football games were tied. We won both basketball games. We lost the first baseball game and won the second. Our class made a good showing at the inter-class meet in the spring of 1908. Our first attempt at having a class picture was unfortunate, the second was successful. Both our banquets were successful. We have been faithful in carrying out all the established customs of the college. We love our class, but not so much as we love our college.

LONG LIVE NEW HAMPSHIRE!

The Juniors

David Wadsworth Anderson, "Andy," KΣ, AZ Manchester

Manchester High School

Agricultural

Secretary and Treasurer Agricultural Club (3).

This personage is known to the world as "Andy"; but his friends have a bountiful supply of daintier soubriquets for him. He is noted for the pinkness of his nose on a frosty morning, and the "Aggie" course is noted because "Andy" is in it. When he graduates, he intends to start a cow factory, with real, pretty milk-maids in it.

Frank Hartwell Bills, "Bills"

Reed's Ferry

McGaw Normal Institute

Electrical Engineering

It is reported that Frank has several girls, but we doubt it, having also heard that he is engaged. There's nothing like beginning young, though. When he recites in military science he gives us spasms of joy. If Bills did not have to work so hard to put himself through college, he would be the greatest social light that we have: Witness the posies.

Alfred Edward Blake, "Bud"

Nashua

Nashua High School

Chemical Engineering

Cane Rush (1) (2) Two Hands; College Monthly Staff (1) (2) (3); Editor in Chief (3); Second Lieutenant (3); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3); First Lieutenant and Quarter-Master (3).

Three years ago, "Bud," desirous of military glory, arrived in Durham to obtain instruction from his illustrious townsman "Bill Hunt." Did he succeed? Well, we should smile. Watch his superb, military bearing. He is remembered by the faculty as the man who slammed them with editorials and by the students as a K. M. 'fusser," Look out, "Bud."

Dalton Boynton, "Boynt," ΓΘ

Little Boar's Head

Newburyport High School

Electrical Engineering

Cane Rush (1) One Hand.

"Boynt" is a devout and pious lad, when he is home, or any of his folks come to see him. He loves to break up every choice manœuvre of the battalion that he can, when at drill. Just as the power that is, is about to bellow forth, "Boynt's" little bugle goes—"toot-toot-toot-i-oot," and we are put enroute for dinner. "Boynt" claims he has the best collection of photos of pretty girls in college.

Orville Frank Bryant, "Fat," ΚΣ

Ashland

Plymouth High School

Chemical Engineering

Cane Rush (1) (2) One Hand; Class Football (1) (2); Assistant Business Manager, 1910 Granite (3).

Old "Fat" is a good man to have around. He's a jolly, old sport with a big pod which we fear has developed from living in the "dry town"—Ashland. He can graft more innocently than anyone else, and it would do you good to hear him make one of his touching appeals to a stony-hearted instructor. Fat takes the "Chem" course, and some day he will sit in a plush office chair, at a round salary, and watch the men under him work, through a dense cloud of vaporous tobacco.

Lucian Holmes Burns, "Bobby," AZ

Milford High School

Stock Judging Team (3).

This is "Bobby," a direct descendant of the "only original." "Bobby" can give you the family tree of any cow in ten seconds, at two hundreds yards, and at close range, the total number of times she is liable to wade in the milk pail at any one sitting. "Bobby" has not "come out" yet, but he can blush awfully well, and that is said to be a good indication that success will attend the event.

Milford

Agricultural

Edgar Herbert Burroughs, "Edgar," KΣ

Sanbornville

Brewster Free Academy

Mechanical Engineering

Class Basketball (1) (2); Class Baseball (1) (2); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3); Varsity Baseball (2).

"Eddie Ziz" hails from Sanbornville (wherever that may be). We can't say anything bad about him (or anything good). He batted for an average of .448 on the baseball team in 1908. For three years, "Barrers I" has made the faculty think that he is a model student. It's a good graft, "Ziz," and we hope you get away with it.

Wilbur Warren Burroughs, "Wilbur," KΣ

Sanbornville

Brewster Free Academy

Mechanical Engineering

Varsity Basketball (1); Class Basketball (1) (2); Class Baseball (1) (2); Varsity Baseball (2).

"Willie Ziz" has all of his brother's virtues but has been spared many of the latter's failings. "Barrers II" is a devoted and faithful member of the bachelor's club. All the kick we have coming is the fact that he is not one of triplets instead of twins. "Wanted—A pair of pretty lady twins,—object matrimony."

George Henry Chamberlin, "Chame," ΔΞ Woodsville

Woodsville High School

Electrical Engineering

Class Baseball (2).

"Put" says that "Chambo" is all right. The latter is making a study of the art of bluffing the "perfessors." "Chame" hails from Woodsville, smile and all. During his stay here he has acquired some knowledge, some conditions, but will pull his B.S. yet.

Fred Odell Chase, "Chasey," ΓΘ

Warner

Simonds Free High School

Mechanical Engineering

Cane Rush (2) Two Hands; Class Football (2); Class Baseball (2); Student Council (3); Treasurer Athletic Association (3); First Lieutenant (3).

Fred struck the town way back in the '70's. He was handed over to us by the class of '08, having stayed out two years to get over a love affair. In the presence of the faculty Fred's appearance would indicate that the care of the whole college is upon his shoulders but when he is with the boys, "nuff sed."

Henry Thomas Converse, "Conney,"

Amherst

Amherst High School

Agricultural

Cane Rush (1) One Hand.

"Conney" comes from the sleepest town in the state and that accounts for his looks. He doesn't act sleepy, now however. They say he woke up during the latter part of his Freshman year when catching bugs for "Sandy." "Conney" is an "Aggie" man, and when he has a farm of his own, he will raise calves and pigs for his sons to "wrestle" so that they will become properly trained for the part of rough-housers when they come here to college.

Harry Percival Corliss, "Hen," ΔΞ, C. and C. Wolfeboro

Brewster Free Academy

Chemical Engineering

Student Council (3); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

A man who delights in getting up early to plug. "Hen" once failed to hand in a Mechanics problem on time, but he says it will not happen again. Unfortunately he is not very strong and is unable to take active work in drill. No this is no graft, just a cinch. Under the influence of "Patsey," "Hen" expects to be a chemist.

Harry Peach Corson, "Pete," ΓΘ

Laconia

Laconia High School

Chemical Engineering

Associate Editor College Monthly (1) (2) (3); Second Lieutenant (3); Assistant Basketball Manager (3); Editor-in-Chief, 1910 Granite (3).

"Pete" is a shining example of what a college will do for a fellow. When he struck Durham, he hit the studies up great, so as to impress the faculty. Now he doesn't have to plug; they pass him with "A" on general principles. In his Sophomore year, he learned to dance, and incidentally, to "fuss" in a most charming manner. It was with these accomplishments that he astounded the fair young friends of his native burg last summer. "Pete" is a "Chem" man, and at the same time a disciple of Isaac Walton.

Arthur Clyde Cotton, "Cot," ΓΘ

Alton

Brewster Free Academy

General

Cane Rush (1) (2) Two Hands; Secretary Chess and Checker Club (3); Social Committee (3).

"Cot" is quite a boy. He knows it himself, but his modesty forbids that he display all his vast merits to the vile rabble. "Cot" will make a terrible mistake if he does not become a politician. He has all the ear-marks of a gentleman of that calling. Here are a few of the ear-marks; distinguished bearing, face and hair as per the cut, clarion voice, great wisdom, much astuteness, and great aptitude for business (everybody's).

Edwin Daniel French, "Pow-wow," BΦ South Hampton

Sanborn Seminary

Electrical Engineering

Valentine Smith Scholarship; Class Football (2).

This is a sample of what the Pow-wow river region has passed up to us. E. D. wishes us to state that he has just one enemy, the barber. He is a class shark and has invented a patent, waterproof, collapsible book bag. French was never a society man. He is going to take a chance at developing the Pow-wow water power after 1910.

George Burpee Heffler, "Hef"

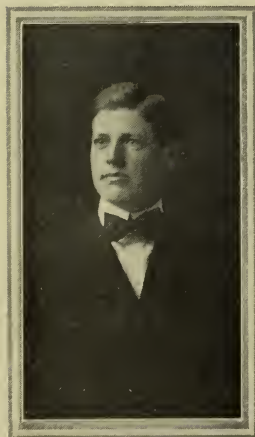

Brockton, Mass.

Brockton High School

Mechanical Engineering

Class Football (2).

"Hef" is a strong man with the ladies, with whom he is very agreeable. It is stated on good authority that "Hef" combed his hair just once during his first term in the Block. The act was committed in a fit of forgetfulness. He does it oftener now, and rumor has it that his secret ambition is to be the first '10 man to get married. If he is, he will have to treat the crowd.

Harry Wesley Holmes, "Harry," ΔΞ

Northwood

Coe's Academy

Electrical Engineering

Military Band (1) (2) (3).

Harry comes from a town somewhere back in the wilderness. It takes him two days to make the journey home the last twenty miles, being made on foot over a rough logging road. In spite of this handicap, he has succeeded in making the military department think that he is a second Sousa and thereby evaded drill.

Simes Thurston Hoyt, "Simes," BΦ

Newington

Portsmouth High School

Mechanical Engineering

In spite of his pose at drill, Hoyt is a good lad. He can juggle formulas like a second "Artie." Although he comes from Newington, we are forced to admit that there is more or less brain in his cranium and perhaps more. He hopes to get by in the M.E. course.

Walter Dennis Kidder, "Kid," ΔΞ, C. and C. Manchester

Manchester High School

Electrical Engineering

Cane Rush (2) Two Hands; Class Football (1) (2); Class Basketball (1) (2); Class Baseball (1) (2); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

We have at least one real military man in the class. "Kid" even expects to drill his Senior year. He was a good man to have last June, for it was his good, right arm which helped to win the class Baseball game. Don't call the "Captain" a liar again, "Kid."

Cheney Edward Lawrence, "Chene," KΣ

Nashua

Nashua High School

Mechanical Engineering

Class Vice-President (1) (2) (3); Class Football (1) (2); Class Basketball (1) (2); Class Baseball (1) (2); Glee Club (3);

During his Freshman year, "Chene" spent his nights prowling around the town, looking for hostile Sophomores. Lately he has been making a series of experiments on the advisability of "butting into" Duham's "400." His name will go down in history as the propounder of the law of "Least Squares."

James Mortimer Leonard, "Kit," KΣ, C. and C. Woodsville

Woodsville High School Electrical Engineering

Class Secretary (1) (2) (3); Class Football (1) (2); Varsity Football (1) (2) (3); Cane Rush (1) (2) Two Hands; Class Baseball (1) (2); Secretary Athletic Association (3); Second Lieutenant (3).

"Kit" thinks this world is a pretty good place to live after all. For three years he has faithfully served as class secretary, putting into his duties all the time he could spare from his own correspondence. After graduation, "Kit" will join the "Woodsville Dramatic Club" playing "Wanted, A Wife."

Leonard Samuel Morrison, "Deke," ΓΘ

Concord High School

Prize Drill, 1st Prize (1); First Lieutenant and Adjutant (3); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

"Deke" was the first man in the class to register for the general course. He is a good air compressor and says that although he does not swear, he knows how to. "Deke" expects to be a teacher, but no one knows what he can teach unless it is drill. Take him raw, for we will not roast him.

Penacock

General

Haldimand Wentworth Neal, "Tart," ZEZ

Dover

Dover High School

Electrical Engineering

Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

"Tart" is this boy's nickname, and it is unnecessary to enter any further upon characteristic personalities. It is his ambition to be known as a sport, but we fear the dream will never materialize. He is a good imitation, though. From the great gusto with which he executes his duties at drill, we know he aims to get his name in the army register. He is in the electrical course, and since he is not very tall, they should caution him as to his behavior in the vicinity of heavy currents, 'cause he might bring about a short-circuit.

Robert Abbott Neal, "Peg," ZEZ, C. and C.

Dover

Dover High School

Electrical Engineering

Cane Rush (2) Two Hands; Class Baseball (1) (2); First Lieutenant (3); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

"Peg" is appropriately named, for he is about the longest man in these parts. He says he doesn't have to worry about getting a job after he graduates, because half-a-dozen "freak" dealers want to list him as a living skeleton. "Peg" is an electrical man, however, and will doubtless give an offer along that line first consideration. Here, too, is he sure of a job. He can offer his services as a temporary telegraph pole. He's a good fellow, and from the fatherly way in which he deals with some of the faculty, we predict that he will sometime be a good parent.

Charles Edward Peel, "Peela," BΦ

Nashua

Nashua High School

Chemical Engineering

Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

"Don't hurry, don't worry" is "Peela's" motto and he lives up to it to the letter. Peel is a quiet lad and is the only man in 'chem. lab.' who will not swear over a spoiled analysis. For this reason, we fear he will never make a chemist.. Peel is a wise guy though, for he is one of the few who never acquired the Dover habit.

Clement Linwood Perkins, "Cy," KΣ

Berwick, Me.

Berwick Academy

Chemical Engineering

Cane Rush (1) One Hand; Class Treasurer (1) (2) (3); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

This is "Cy," or "Lieberdewoim." "Cy" is class treasurer, and we claim he has a "cinch." When ne want to go to Dover, all he has to do is to dun somebody for his class dues. If he gets the money, he thinks he is mighty lucky. He is a "chem" man too, and his specialty is the "P. Chem." He is famous as the only good-looking man in the class who does not care for the ladies.

Henry Brown Philbrook, "Willie"

Hampton High School

North Hampton

General

This is our precious "Little Willie." When he blew into Durham three Septembers ago, he made a hit with all hands. His military trousers constituted one of the first pairs of those articles reaching below his knees, that he ever owned. No one who saw "Willie" then ever dreamed that he would grow so tough. You ought to hear his nonchalant "yeas," and his "Ah g'wan." We can't see how "Noah" Sanborn has the courage to room with such a passionate and masterful fellow. It is reported that poor "Noah" is abused daily.

Brenton William Proud, "Brent," KΣ, C. and C., Manchester

Manchester High School

Electrical Engineering

Assistant Football Manager (3); Manager Class Basketball (2); Glee Club (3).

"Brent" loves his books; he says they give the room a cosy appearance. "Hinckle" has apparently made a hit with the faculty. Several of them have been heard to remark that they would like to see more of him. "Brent" is one of the boys and we are glad to number him among our classmates.

Harold Clifford Read, "Willie," ΓΘ

Winchester High School

Electrical Engineering

Westport

Cane Rush (2) Two Hands; Varsity Football (3); Class Football (1) (2); Class Basketball (2); Class Baseball (1) (2); Varsity Baseball (2).

"Cupid" is the pretty boy of the class. Last year he took first prize as the most beautiful boy ever seen in Durham. In spite of his looks, "Bill" will be a man sometime. If he gets his B.S., he intends to engage in the meat business, which he is at present learning.

Clearton Howard Reynolds, "Terry" Middletown, N. Y.

Middletown High School Chemical Engineering

Cane Rush (1) Two Hands; Editor-in-Chief College Monthly (3).

This is "Terry." He never quits until it is all over. Here is an example. After our Freshman cane rush, Terry was walking cautiously, amid a friendly circle, when his spirit quailed within him, for lo! a group of fair ones had to be passed. Resolving to do or die, he girded about him the scanty remnants of his borrowed trousers, which had perished in the rush, and ran down the turnpike even as the hunted deer doth run, receiving the well merited applause from the multitude.

Raymond Brewster Scammon, "Scam," BΦ Stratham

Exeter High School Mechanical Engineering

Cane Rush (2) One Hand.

Three years at college have left no impression on "Scam." He has never yet turned up his trousers or cut his hair pompadour. Raymond is a running mate of "Pow-wow" French's, and he admits that after working up the "smallwood" all day he does go "fussing" at night.

Clyde Henry Swan, "Clyde," ZEZ, C. and C. Keene

Winchester High School General

Class President (1) (2) (3); Cane Rush (1) (2) Two Hands; Class Football (1) (2); Class Baseball (1); Business Manager, 1910 Granite (3).

Clyde has withstood the attacks of the faculty and shown his ability to meet the "conditions" (and flunks). Perhaps he has a pull with "Prexy" and the "Capt." He used to pitch some in baseball, but last year he had a lame right arm for he likes some girls. You'll get there, Clyde.

Harry William Tenney, "Harry," ZEZ

Newport

Richards High School

Electrical Engineering

Cane Rush (1) Two Hands; Class Football (1) (2); Glee Club (3).

This is Harry. Harry is one of the quietest boys in the class. He is a man of action rather than of words. This statement is illustrated by a feat of his which will make him famous for generations. By his great perseverance and skill, not to mention other laudable qualities, Harry has succeeded in flunking Chemistry I three separate and distinct times. Surely a tablet should be unveiled which shall announce his fame to posterity.

Theron Alberto Thorp, "Theron"

Exeter

Exeter High School

Electrical Engineering

Military Band (1) (2) (3); Glee Club (3).

Theron has elevated his name by means of his horn. Countless times has he resuscitated a dying tune, as it was being choked on the campus at parade, by whacking it on the back, and whooping it up some more. Theron is one of these cast-iron men. He gets up in the morning somewhere around three o'clock to plug. From six o'clock to eight, he juggles grub, milk cans, or any old thing that comes his way. It is the same way at noon and at night. After seven o'clock, he plays until his snore gets to the right pitch; then he seeks repose.

Ernest George Towne, "Cyc," I©

Thornton

Plymouth High School

Mechanical Engineering

Class Football (1) (2).

"Cyc" is a jolly boy. His jovial face and big laugh are enough to drive away the blues even from a Freshman after warnings have come out. He has a good game of hot air and can argue the most obstinate professor into submission. He has a horror for chemistry, an indifference toward the ladies, and a love for peace and his pipe.

Burleigh Ray Wells, "Mose," KΣ

Somersworth

Somersworth High School Electrical Engineering
Cane Rush (2) One Hand; Glee Club (3); Social Committee (1) (2) (3).

"Can any good thing come out of Somersworth?" Well, that is where "Mose" hails from.

When Gabriel blows his trumpet we are backing "Carrot" to be the first man over the line with plenty of time to pick out the softest spot before the crowd gathers. "Mose" sings in the Glee Club and bangs the piano some.

Aaron Wallace Wilkins, "Gus," ΔΞ

Milford

Cushing Academy

Mechanical Engineering

"Gus" is a living advertisement of Squires Leaf Lard. He is a fat man and a lazy man. The only thing worthy of mention which "Gus" has done is to register for M.E. and to keep his scholarship. "Never take three steps when two will do as well," "Gus".

Charles Shannon Wright, "Shan," ZEZ

Portsmouth

Portsmouth High School

Agricultural

Cane Rush (2) Two Hands; Class Football (2) Varsity Basketball (2).

"Shan" is a sensible man, for he chose 1910, after a try at the two year course. He is a good man with the ladies and does much shopping in Dover. At present he is making a study of perfumes and toilet preparations. "Shan" is "takin' farmin'."

Horace Chester Wyman, "Fritz," ZEZ

Manchester

Manchester High School

Agricultural

Cane Rush (1) One Hand; Class Baseball (1); Mandolin Club (2); Manager Class Football (1); Associate Editor, 1910 Granite (3).

"Fritz" is a good man, that is when he stands erect with his knees together. "Bowlegs" plays basketball some and flunks "Aggie," but we must admit that his habits are good. He does not even smoke and he retires at seven-thirty every evening, probably to evade plugging rather than to gain sleep.

History of the Class of 1911

IS IT possible that anyone does not yet know the history of the Class of 1911? No, for the year book of 1909 printed the tale of our earliest career at New Hampshire. The world already knows how the fall rains in Durham made us flourish and how we waxed green and fresh. Poor, green, unsophisticated Freshmen that we were, we made a name for ourselves by winning the cane rush. Greatness increased for us when we held '10 in a 0-0 football game. Our verdure was quite forgotten the day after Thanksgiving, for we stole quietly over to the Bag-dad road, and on to Portsmouth. Unmolested by Sophomores—they didn't even suspect we had gone—we enjoyed the most sumptuous banquet ever served at the "Rockingham."

The winter and spring terms we devoted to study and laid the foundations for all our present wisdom. We didn't have time to mourn the loss of the basketball and baseball games. We knew that our plucky teams had done their best against the experienced teams of '10. We surely did our best on cheering; even now the wind whistles back the echoes of our lusty voices. "Be game to the last," is our motto in athletics.

September, 1908, found 1911 assembled once more from the hills and shore of New Hampshire, fewer in number, but proportionately stronger in the spirit of loyalty. This year it was our duty to train the Freshmen as we had been trained, to make rules for them, and to help them recover from their serious attack of "greenness." They followed our wise example and won the cane-rush. Their lesson took another form at the football game, for they had thought to win that game, but we went out in the cold rain to have '11 win, and they did, 5-0.

All the fall the Freshmen bustled around, planning to have their picture taken some morning while we were getting our beauty sleep. The time limit for the picture was drawing near, when lo! one evening they began to leave town one by one. Suddenly we had the remaining poor sleepy Freshmen gathered by the armful in the "Block," where we tried to put them to sleep under our protection. They were restless, but we took good care of them. Oh! the injustice of having an extra drill for our charitable act on that day! In November, we were really glad to let the dear children have their pictures taken on the Library steps.

One moonlight evening this winter, we strolled out to do a little research work in the greenhouse. The Freshmen, too, began research work and began running to Boston,

Exeter, Dover and Portsmouth, to bring us back; they miss us badly when we are gone. We went quietly back to our rooms that night, but they are still on the way back from their vain quest.

One event has broken the happy, successful career of the class. In the death of our beloved classmate, John Worthen Davis, we were united in grief. The sudden loss of such a lad as "Wort" has made us all more serious and better men and women.

1911 is still young! Her history grows every day. It is our aim to make that history one of which our beloved Alma Mater will be proud.

History of the Class of 1912

IN THE fall of 1908 there assembled at Durham the largest class which has ever entered our college. Our reception was enthusiastic. On the second night after our arrival we showed our theatrical abilities by giving a "minstrel" show. This was presented in the Block under the management of the Sophomores, and doubtless many hits were made. The next morning the "Sophs," who were ever too considerate of our welfare, posted notices for our guidance, but we considered these to be superfluous and, accordingly, removed them. This criticism of our etiquette aroused our indignation, and we resolved to repay them for their insolence. The cane-rush was to take place that day, and it was here that we found our opportunity. We were a stalwart class, and our strength had already become apparent in the preliminary conflicts with the Sophomores. Confident of success, we prepared for the combat and, dressed and painted as true warriors, we assembled on the campus. At the crack of the pistol, the struggle began; we rushed upon our foe, and soon the victory was won. Freshmen 32, Sophomores 13. Our enthusiasm was unbounded, and in the evening we celebrated our first victory by a parade and bonfire, thus completing the greatest day in the short history of the Class of 1912.

Not long after this memorable event we elected our class officers and planned our campaign for the year. We also thought it proper that we should have our picture taken, in order that it might be handed down to posterity. Accordingly, a feat was planned which had never before been attempted, and one which, if successfully carried out, would have proved most praiseworthy. The picture was to be taken in Durham. One noon, after chapel, a class meeting was called, and here we waited until all the unsuspecting Sophs had departed. Everything seemed favorable; but alas, the fates were not propitious, for although all our preparations had been successfully carried out, the photographer failed to arrive. A second attempt was made the next morning, and, although a picture was taken in Exeter, we still failed in our purpose, as a few of our classmates had been detained in Durham. Disappointed, but not discouraged, we resolved to wait for more favorable auspices. At last the opportunity came and, early in November, the entire class was photographed on the steps of the Library.

The football season was already started, and the squad was greatly strengthened by men from our class. The next event of importance was the class football game, but in this contest we were unfortunate, for, although the game was very closely contested, the Sophomores won, 5-0.

As we have supported our class, even more so have we striven to support our college. Always have we endeavored to show the true New Hampshire spirit. Already deep is our reverence for our Alma Mater. Ever shall we sing:

“ A health to the class we love the most,
We praise New Hampshire!
And one to our teams of whom we boast,
Long live New Hampshire!”

New Hampshire Hymn

New Hampshire, alma mater,
All hail! All hail to thee!
Behind thee tower the mountains,
Before thee roars the sea.
Thy sons and daughters ever
Thy praises loud will sing.
New Hampshire, alma mater,
Accept our offering.

We love thee, old New Hampshire,
And to the White and Blue,
Where'er our work shall call us,
We always will be true.
We'll ever guard thy honor,
Bright shall thy mem'ry be,
New Hampshire, alma mater,
All hail! All hail to thee!

—Words by H. F. Moré, '98

New Hampshire College Football Songs

So let's give three cheers for the blue
And watch the backs go ripping through.
We're going to win to-day, no matter what they say,
So let's all give a shout—Rah! Rah!
Vermont, Bates and Maine,
We'll hold them all without a gain.
So give a yell for old New Hampshire
And we'll win out.

—Words by “Knibbs” Fuller, '06

Old New Hampshire's out to-day
And we're going to win,
We're never known to give in;
Down the field our backs will spin;
For Ingham, Cone, Chase, Batch and Wilkins stand in bold array,
To old New Hampshire this is what we say;

Du, du liegst mir im Herzen
Du, du liegst mir im Sinn
Du, du machst mir viel Schmerzen
Weisst nicht wie gut ich dir bin.
Ja, Ja, Ja, Ja, weisst nicht wie gut ich dir bin.

—Words by Jimmie Cash, '08

KNOCKS

The Soldier Boy

John Whitleaf Greenier

Dedicated to W. E. Hunter

Blessings on thee, little man,
In uniform, with cheek of tan!
With thy military pantaloons,
And thy sadly whistled tunes;
With thy red nose, redder still,
For you are laced up now for drill;
With the sadness in thy look,
Brought there by a tictacs book.
In thy heart, I see thee sad,—
For I was once a soldier lad!
Slave thou art,—the Quaker man
Only is republican.
Let the million beggars mourn!
Tight laced, in thy gay uniform,
Thou hast sorrows more than they
Could ever have, in any way,—
Outward splendor, inward pain:
Heaven help thee, gaudy swain.
All your days are useless show,
Miles at double time you go,
Wearing out good pairs of boots,
Running at each whim or Lieut's.
In extended order chase
Through all the mud that's in the place,
Practice in the Manual,
Load and fire with dummy shell.
Then you know, and know it well,
How to land on hostile coast,
How to make a Cossack post,
How to march, and how to camp,
How to shoot a worthless scamp,

How to cover many miles;
Duties of connecting files,
Wages of a cargador,
Rate of march of army corps,
How the pontoon should be laid,
When the cordon system made,
Service of security,
Range of fire, what e'er it be,
Army cook, if maid or man;
Duties of an artisan,—
For, as through this life you go,
You get full measure of its woe,
Of its sorrow, of its pain:
Heaven help thee, luckless swain.
Wearily, then, my litte man,
Live and work, as slaves all can!
Adamant the Lieut. may be,
And far removed from equity.
Every week shall leave thee, too,
With some less drills, at least, to do.
If, after years of labor past,
Your lot should still with us be cast,
Then is life without an ill,
You may watch the others drill.

Hammer Hammer Hammer, or The He Haw Banquet

HE skimmings of Durham society, the H. A. W. Society, or as some Shakesperian artist would write it, the cream of the fair flowers of Durham, held their first annual banquet in Portsmouth, March 9, 1909.

Oh day of days! The fair damsels were to leave Durham on the 9.57 train. Of course all exercises were suspended for the day. Promptly at 9.45, the College Battalion, headed by the Durham Brass Band, halted in front of Smith Hall. The fair associates appeared—there were princess gowns, merry widows and scalaperzezers. All this glorious effulgence was escorted to the station with a loud clamor. At the station the students, augmented by thousands of voices from the surrounding towns, rent the air with cheer upon cheer for the H. A. W. As the train pulled out, Carl D. Kennedy, of Durham, led the multitude in singing, "Sweet Stars Shine on Forever," an original song composed by him for the occasion.

The chrysanthemums arrived in Portsmouth somewhat wilted. Miss Smith, the president consulted with Miss Draper, the treasurer. Horrors! The ladies had spent five cents for chewing gum, and the banquet would have to be postponed. Pandemonium reigned. Miss Blake, "How will we ever be able to keep our place in Durham society?" Miss Handy, "Oh, I feel like jumping over the table." Miss Drake, "Oh dear, Dunc will—." President Smith to the rescue, "Girls, quiet yourselves, I am with you. For thirty-two years I have battled with this cruel world,—look at me now, as fresh as a morning glory! Am I not able to cope with this great financial problem? We will invest our remaining capital in cold cream and rouge. I will wire an account of the banquet to the Durham Gazette, we will take a hot foot special to Durham, and all will be lovely." (Loud applause.)

Durham Gazette, March 10, 1909.

"The young ladies of H. A. W. Society of New Hampshire College held their first annual banquet at the Rockingham hotel in Portsmouth this evening. The Society, though small in number, represents the most select clique among the fair advocates of co-education at New Hampshire.

The members of the society were escorted to the station at Durham by a crowd of the student body, who gave testimony to the popularity of the young ladies and co-eduaction in general, by giving the college and H. A. W. cheers. The banquet took place in the small banquet hall at the Rockingham, which was appropriately decorated with the society colors and H. A. W. banners. The menu which was prepared according to the special orders of Miss Smith, the president, was a revelation in culinary art.

In the course of the evening, the following toasts were fittingly responded to:

"New Hampshire College Spirit," Miss Handy.

"The Advantages of Co-education," Miss Smith.

"The Girls We left at Smith Hall," Miss Blake.

"Puppy Dog Love, or the Boys of New Hampshire," Miss Drake.

"Us, The H. A. W.," Miss Draper.

The president gave a brief address filled with vim and vigor, in which she panegyricized the society, stating in brief that quality, not quantity, should be the motto of the society.

Smith Hall. On the evening of March 10. (The secluded few of the H. A. W. present only.) "Ain't it awful, Bret." "It's terrible Dunc." "Only think we have been found out and exposed." "What will our freshmen sisters think of us." "Can they call us imposters." "Of course Durham is no place for us girls, but I should think the boys would admire a select crowd like us." "Oh dear, think of the queens in Smith and Wellesley." "I suggest that we vilify all who are connected with this sorriness." "I move that all concerned be forever ostracized from H. A. W. society." "I second the motion," "Unanimously carried, without a murmur." (Loud applause.)

"Oh wad some power the giftie gie us
To see ourselves as others see us!"

The First Slide Rule Lecture

WE had assembled in the physical lecture room for a little talk on the use of the slide rule. Some of the class had purchased rules, but there was a large majority which did not have them, and did not even know what they were. In a short time however we heard things about them. The instructor rushed in about seven minutes late, snatched off his glasses and wiped them, took a hasty survey of the class, and then drew something that looked like a rule from his pocket. He began his remarks something after this manner,

"We will have the throwing of chalk around the room stopped immediately. Gentlemen! It will be necessary that you give the closest attention and follow me carefully, for there will be but two more lectures." He then held up the slide rule and continued, "Now notice carefully, this little instrument which I have in my hand is known as a slide rule. It is approximately ten inches in "lenth," one and one-fourth inches wide, and has in its simple form a slide moving in a fixed base. Does everyone follow me? But notice once again. Here is a little runner composed of tin and celluloid. This slides to and fro, and enables you to obtain the readings with a great degree of accuracy."

By this time he was well warmed up, for he was rushing back and forth at a great rate in front of the class. The bald spot on his head fairly gleamed. But he continued, "Sh! Let us see once. You will observe that one scale is numbered A and another B." Right at this point, the back seat tipped over, and there was a great commotion. By the time things had quieted down, the instructor had decided to dismiss us, and we came out. We had learned in regard to the use of slide rules that they were a great invention, and that some of them were ten inches long and an inch and a quarter wide.

A Midnight Visit to Smith Hall

EARSAY has it that man has never entered Smith Hall after ten p. m., but overcome by curiosity, I entered that sacred abode one night after the forbidden hour. The many sights which I saw while roaming about at this unheard-of hour were so weird and unseemly as to leave my mind in such a chaotic state that I am even to this day unable wholly to recall them. Several, however, I distinctly remember.

Hearing loud whispering in the basement I crept cautiously down the stairs. There on the lower landing were Miss Hunt and Miss Trafton engaged in a spirited discussion and facing each other belligerently. "He's mine, I saw him first," said Miss Trafton. "I don't care," screamed Miss Hunt, "I'm going to have him. I never had one." At this, the object of their discussion took alarm, and fled wildly up the stairs with the ladies in hot pursuit. As he passed me, I recognized him, Bill Remington, the janitor.

Frightened by the narrow escape of the janitor, I was about to make my escape, when my attention was attracted by voices upon the second floor. My curiosity was aroused. I noiselessly ascended the stairs, and peeped through the key hole of the room whence came the voices. Several young ladies were engaged in an animated debate upon the merits and demerits of the sheath gown. One of them was demonstrating its advantages with an improvised model of the article in question. I was deeply interested, and with my eye glued to the key-hole, I was straining my ears to catch every word, when the door was suddenly opened from the inside, and I was precipitated into the arms of the matron. Grasping me firmly by the collar, she whirled me twice about her head, and hurled me down the stairs. Never shall I forget the awful sensation as I fell through space, or the dull crash with which I struck the floor—and awoke.

Swearing softly, I crawled back into bed, and then and there registered a solemn oath never under any circumstances to visit Smith Hall.

Great Combustion at Thompson Hall !!

Total Loss of Two Bug Houses and One Gross of the Famous Red Neckties !!

Great Bug Famine Predicted.

Lutz in Mixed Uniform, Glorifies Himself !!

Prexie Turns a Somersault !!

(Special to the Durham Daily Chronicle)

Friday, March 12, 1909—Thompson Hall was the scene of a wild and terrible catastrophe, early this morning. At 2 a. m. the virtuous Hefler, by means of his delicate probocis, detected the odor of roast meat, from his perch beneath the belfry. Thumping the valiant Chase, to arouse him, they proceeded to investigate in all the drawing and lecture rooms, those haunts of the Consolidated Association of Hot Air Artists. Failing to detect fire, they at once bethought them of the office of the monopolist of the ruddy necktie, and here the search bore fruit.

Unlocking the door, they entered, and soon had the place booked for a fire and water sale. They were astonished, however, to find that the source of fumigation was in the room beneath this office, and when the last spark was extinguished, they found the charred remains of two double-tenement bug-houses, the uncharred property of the department of our sunny-haired bug-houser. It was the flavor of broiled bug in the original smoke that had aroused the alert janitor.

The last spark extinguished, the two skillful, but modest young janitors lighted the gas, took all other necessary precautions, and then proceeded joyfully to the belfry, where they rang the alarm of fire with great zeal. Having done this they returned below to receive visitors. On they came! Each captain went bravely to his post of danger! There was valiant shouting of orders, splashing of water, hissing of chemicals. Devoted Luty was there to call the roll, and eagerly craved orders from Bendy Bill Ripper, Master of Ceremonies. The shouts and hoots defied the elements! Prexie, ever mindful of his great responsibility, rushed madly across his lot in search of heroic Bill and the Fire Brigade, and gyrated rapidly in a vertical plane when both feet paused momentarily on one side of a low wire fence. When his gyrations had ceased, he coasted blithely down a juicy bank of mud, and broke his President Suspenders.

After several hours of superhuman effort, the work of the Fire Brigade was accomplished, and henceforth, it is to be considered as immortal. A reward of honorable mention is recommended for Luty, who opened all the windows in the building to let out the smoke, and who remained calm and nonchalant throughout the entire period of tense excitement.

Each member of the Brigade is to receive a scarlet necktie in cognizance of his valiant services. Prexie will get a pair of Police and Firemen's Suspenders, and Patsy, who must not remain unmentioned, is going to present Heffler and Chase with a couple of W. C. T. U. badges that he won when a little boy, in acknowledgment of their promptness in ringing the alarm, except for which great loss would have been sustained. He was overheard telling them that he could say "without the least egotism" that if he had been there when the fire started, he could have stopped it with "perfect ease."

It is surmised that our sunny boy had just deprived several of his tenants of documents which conferred upon them privileges similar to those granted by a scholarship, and that these unruly ones had been indulging in the use of the nicotine plant, and had scattered their matches promiscuously, thus starting the blaze. Another theory is that they were careless in playing with a Sandy hair which had fallen into their possession. Be that as it may, we have to lament the loss of a rare and costly crop of very fine bugs of many descriptions and classifications, and the great chiefs are now paralyzed at the loss of the whole supply for the rapidly approaching summer, and among the students there exists the great fear that the individuals of the faculty will be successful in hatching another supply at short notice, a thing which could not cause great surprise. Pet got Sandy mad by telling him frankly that if he hadn't been so cranky with his bugs, that their condition wouldn't have varied "one iota," but as it was, a bug famine must be contended with. Then some chump hollered, "Cheer up! we have Artie!" Put is so glad that the fire didn't conflagrate in any of his domains, that he says he will give the Fire Brigade a champagne supper,—sometime.

Heard In Class Room

Professor Scott asks a question using long words and complicated sentences.

S——. "Please repeat."

Professor Scott—"I don't know that I can, for I have forgotten what I asked."

Captain Hunt—"Mr. Johnson, what do you understand is meant by casing the colors?"

Johnson—"Er, er, I know, but I can't quite express myself. It is a kind of a wood case with a glass front."

"Professor, where is the H_2S bottle?"

Hargraves (frightened)—I feel all stiff and dizzy. My hands are cold and I have no feeling. I think I must have smelled some arsine.

Professor James—I think if you take your hands out of your pockets and go to work, you will be allright.

In an exam—"A segment is a part of a sphere cut off by a plane passing thru the circum in two places."

Spencer—"What does ibidem (the same) mean when seen after a quotation?"

Hood—"He was a Greek, living in the age of Pericles."

Batchelder—"When you go out "Hunt"-in do you aim at the bottom of the game as you do at the bottom of the bulls-eye?"

Captain Hunt—"Every "Hunt"-er has his own rules."

Whereas: Inasmuch as it is deemed advisable and necessary; that we, the senior class of New Hampshire College, situated in Durham, County of Strafford, State of New Hampshire, United States of America, Western Hemisphere, should assert our superiority, and prove the inferiority of the faculty of the before mentioned college, do hereby and here on this thirteenth day of March, in the year of our Lord nineteen hundred and nine, challenge the above mentioned faculty to a quarrel in that contest which requires exceptional brain and brawn, rather than brain alone, namely that of basketball.

Time, place and weapons to be left to the wise or otherwise direction of the challenged. The above challenge is to be subject to the following conditions:

1. That 0% of the proceeds be donated to Dean Pettee.
2. That the following professionals, C. W. Scott, C. L. Parsons, E. R. Groves be declared ineligible.
3. That T. J. Laton be barred from the cheering section.
4. That E. D. Sanderson and F. W. Putnam refrain from singing duets during game.
5. That F. W. Taylor be not allowed to chew tobacco during the game.
6. That K. James be excused from the chemical laboratory during game.
7. That F. W. Morse be appointed faculty cheer leader.
8. That A. F. Nesbit not be allowed to shoot fouls at angle \odot .
9. That the faculty co-eds not be allowed to masticate spearmint during game.
10. That the military equipment of the college be used by Capt. Hunt for training the faculty athletes.

Signed and sealed this thirteenth day of March, nineteen hundred and nine.

Class of 1909.

Pettee Block Echoes

"Who's game to roll the can?"

"Got any Edgeworth?"

"Give you four times."

"Pitch it."

"Oh! Busty! Oh! Busty!"

"Can't a man plug here, for ———— sake?"

"Old New Hampshire's out today
And we're going to win,
We're never known to give in;
Down the field our backs will spin;"

"Has he gone fussing again tonight?"

6 P. M.—A confused rushing and stampede to the Phenix and the Mystic.

Lady (dancing with "Doc")—"Don't you think the music is much too fast?"

Doc—"I never notice the music. I dance by instinct, I think."

"Oh sleep! it is a gentle thing,
Beloved from pole to pole."—"Unc" S——t, '09.

"Hence, horrible shadow!
Unreal mockery hence."—Plugging.

"For I am nothing, if not critical."—Spencer.

Professor—"How did you catch cold?"

Senior—"Using a damp beer stein."

"The world is full of little things."—"Baldy" Peaselee, '09, "Ack," '09, "Noah" Sanborn.

"Because half a dozen grasshoppers under a fern make the field ring with their importunate clink, whilst thousands of great cattle, reposed under the British oak, chew the cud and are silent, pray do not imagine that those who make the noise are the only inhabitants of the field—that, of course, there are many in number—or that, after all, they are other than the little, shrivelled, meagre, hopping, though loud and troublesome insects of the hour."—Entomology Department.

"My life is one demd horrid grind."—Those who room in the block.

"One vast substantial smile."—Bill Ripper.

"He does it with a better grace, but I do it more natural."—Ras.

In Springtime

When the poet's thoughts begin to run in rhyme,
And he writes things that are nothing less than crime,
 'Tis springtime.

When the uniformed cadet goes marching through
Mud so deep 'twould reach the top of any shoe,
 'Tis springtime.

When unsophisticated Freshmen go forth at noon,
To plot the landscape and to find the bearings of the moon,
 'Tis springtime.

When with Dover's femmes the students all get gay,
And Brooks finds school*marms* to drive dull care away,
 'Tis springtime.

When thoughts of men all run to baseball and to track,
When hens all run in crowds and raise their awful clack,
 'Tis springtime.

'Neath midday's sun we lay and smoke and doze,
And know not aught that care or trouble knows,
 In springtime.

Then to dreary duty calls the tones of college bell,
We knock the ashes from our pipes and wish that 'twas in h—l,
 In springtime.

JACOB REEDS' SONS

MANUFACTURERS OF

"Reed Quality" Uniforms

"Reed Quality" Uniforms are designed and fashioned by skilled Military tailors, made and trimmed by experienced and wholly competent workpeople.

They are made on our own premises in light, clean, sanitary work rooms, and are subject to constant personal supervision. They represent the highest skill and exact knowledge in Uniform Making, and cost no more than ordinary goods.

One of the most important and satisfactory features of our Uniform Business is that of outfitting students of Military Schools and Colleges. The results obtained are highly creditable and our contracts are renewed yearly.
